

THE CHRONICLE

TERRORISING THOMAS

YOUNG BOY CLAIMS HE IS BEING FORCED TO BE A GHOSTS APPRENTICE

BY CIARAN

The quiet village of Ledsham was in uproar yesterday, after claims were made by a local boy (James Harrison, aged 10) that he is being haunted by a sorcerer from the eighteenth century. Could he be telling the truth? Or are these the claims from a mischievous school boy.

According to James’ point of view, there have been confusing things happening in East End Cottage.

“Last night, my room was just trashed,” stettered James.

However, Mrs Harrison, James’ mum, offers a different point of view towards her son's opinion, and thinks this whole thing is just a huge prank. James (the victim) gave a brief interview about all the vexatious things the ghost had done. “Why do you think the ghost is targeting you?” the interviewer questioned.

“I don’t know, but he keeps calling me his apprentice and maybe I remind him of his apprentice when he was alive,” assumes James with a passionate voice.

East End Cottage, Ledsham

Simon (James’ best friend) came to join the the interview and had some answers for James and the interview crew, “James, you have gone too far, there is no ghost in your cottage ok so stop pretending a ghost is telling you to be his apprentice,” said Simon angrily, whilst everybody staring at him.

A friend and ally of James showed up, Bert Ellison, a good neighborhood builder, surprisingly a professional ghost catcher, who has caught over 100 ghosts in his life.

“This little lad is telling the truth ok, there is a very special, unique ghost up in there, I've never seen one that can write before so this customer will be a tricky one to catch.”

Weeks later we officially have good news that Mr. Ellison has now caught 101 ghosts. Ledsham can now go back into the peaceful town it used to.

Thomas Kempe has been caught. How did you do it Bert?

“Only professional ghost catchers can know that,” mumbled Bert.

Harrisons@Ledshamroads.elv
East End Cottage