Can I write a diary entry?

Dear diary,

Today was totally amazing! I honestly think it was the best day ever!

As I entered the spooky crypt, all I could hear was my own quiet breathing. My heart was racing inside my chest. It was pitch black in there but I had my trusty torch in my hand. The twinkling torch was shaking all over. Maybe today I would find the precious, ancient treasure at long last. The thing is that I really thought I'd never ever find it in a billion years.

Cunningly, I used my book to figure out where the treasure was kept. OMG!!! The lady statue in front of me was blocking the tunnel to the treasure. I felt so terrified my legs were a shaking tornado. Anyway, I tried to get her to move but she slapped me in the face! Then, I saw there was a socket for money but I didn't have any. Quickly, I used my knife. You'll never believe this but, it actually worked and the statue lifted up like a sunrise.

Quickly, I saw clues to where the treasure was kept. Luckily, I found an old rusty lever. Quick as a flash, I turned the lever and the gold shiny treasure was sitting there behind the wall of hieroglyphics. Once the wall was all the way up, I went to grab some shiny coins but before I could grab any the wall slammed down as fast as a boulder rolling down a mountain. I was fuming I couldn't believe the wall shut down like that.

Suddenly, I noticed there were two spooky mummies chasing me!!! I felt absolutely terrified so I screamed and ran away as fast as Usain Bolt down the scary tunnel. I kept on running until I saw a dancing pit of lava. I could hear the mummies chasing me in the distance. Just then, a bridge appeared so I slowly walked across it. In the distance, I saw an escape train so I ran as fast as I could. Suddenly, the mummy was back chasing me!! Without warning the mummy leapt at me and pulled my trousers off. Mate, I was so embarrassed.

However, I did make it to the train safely phew! I felt relieved because I got away from those evil mummies. Then, I looked around the train and saw six boys looking at me and laughing. I felt terribly embarrassed again, my cheeks were red roses. Even though it was terrifying there, I can't wait to go back.
