

The Daily Prophet

Wizard Where Are You?

By Oscar,(Leader of The Daily Prophet).

On 31st of October 1981, You-Know-Who was killed by a young Harry Potter. Sadly, Lily and James Potter (his parents) didn't make it. According to reports, this incident occurred in Godric's Hollow at their house. Amazingly, everyone now knows his reign of terror is over. It is unknown why he did it.

Yesterday, after finding out You-Know-Who had fallen, everyone in the wizarding world celebrated. In the streets, witches and wizards stood in large groups all over Britain chanting spells. Interestingly, loads of them were wearing tie-dyed cloaks and passing notes with jet-like owls. A wizard name Josh explained, "Rejoice for You-Know-Who has gone at last! Everybody should celebrate this happy, happy day!"

Humorously, the celebrations made the muggles stand in fear as owls rushed past them at the speed of sound. At night, shooting stars were reported on muggle news. A quote from a muggle expert said, "Now the muggles know we are celebrating, what will come next?"

Thankfully we will live in peace because of a new found hero. Harry Potter! We know that Harry will be famous. Books written about him! "I am shattered that Lily and James did not survive but am grateful that Harry survived,"Dumbledore told our reporter.

