

The Daily Prophet

WIZARD GONE WRONG!

By Christian, #1 reporter for The Daily Prophet

On the 31st October 1981, You-Know-Who turned up at the Potter's house in Godric's Hollow. He killed Lily and James Potter then went to kill Harry Potter. However, his power broke and now he's gone. It is still unknown why he murdered Lily and James.

Yesterday, after discovering You-Know-Who's power had disappeared along with him, people began to celebrate. In the streets of London, groups of witches and wizards in a selection of colourful cloaks gathered to celebrate. They were so overjoyed that they hugged lots of strangers, even muggles! "Rejoice for You-Know-Who has gone at last! Everyone should be celebrating this happy, happy day!" an ecstatic wizard told us.

Humorously, our celebrations made it into the muggle news yesterday. All day, muggles complained and complained about the owls sending our messages. Even sillier, they thought the sparks from our wands were shooting stars! "We can't let our celebrations give our secret away." explained Mr Toad, a muggle expert.

Thanks to Harry, we can live in harmony now that You-Know-Who is gone. In the upcoming years, Harry Potter will be famous. Books will be written about him. Everyone in the world will know his name. "Our best wizard and witch may be dead, but I am thankful that Harry survived." Professor Dumbledore told us.

