VICIOUS VOLDEMORT VANISHES

By ethan head reporter for the daily prophet

On 31st of October 1981, you-know-who was thankfully defeated by the one and only Harry potter. In Godric's Hollow, Lily and James potter were sadly murdered by you-know-who. Although you-know-who killed the potters, it is still unknown why he did so.

Yesterday, after finding out you-know-who vanished people in bright, colorful cloaks in the street celebrated all day. since we celebrated, witches and wizards gathered in large groups for the celebrations. unusually, witches and wizards on the street started hugging mugeles! "Rejoice for you-know-who has gone at last! Everybody should be celebration this happy happy day." a joyful wizard called Milo Frost told our reporter.

Humorously, our celebrations made history last night. All day, silly, stupid mugeles in the streets reported strange owl behaviour. Stupidley, mugeles mistaken spells for shooting stars. This is what a muggel expert called Lola had to say about this. "If we confuse the mugeles any more our secret may be found!"

Thanks to Harry potter, the whole world is saved from you-know-who. Joyfully there will definitely be books written about him that you can all read. Here is what professor dumbledore has to say about these events. "I am heartbroken that Harry's parents died but happy that he lived himself." Dumbeldor said happily.
