Vicious voldemort vanishes !

By luke most magical reporter for the Daily Prophet

On the 31st October 1981, You know who was finally defeated by a young Harry Potter. Two days ago on Hallaween night, You Know Who arrived at Godricks Hallow and killed Lily and James Potter whereas the little Harry Potter survived defeating You Know Who. The reasons behind the attack are unknown.

Yesterday, after realising You Know Who was gone, Witches and Wizards couldn't help celebrating, All over Britain, celebrations in the streets were massive and almost gave away our secret. Since we were so elated, ever so often we'd hug a muggle. In the celebrations we managed to talk to professor sprout. She told us that," Everyone should be celebrating this great, great day."

Humorously, our massive celebrations caught muggle attention and even made their news. Throughout the day, muggles claimed weird owl behavior whereas we just knew they were sending messages. During the night, our victory sparks were mistaken for shooting stars. While speaking to Miss Wendy, a muggle expert, she told us," Although it is funny seeing muggles get confused. We need to keep this under control."

Thanks to Harry Potter, there will finally be peace after Years of terror. The person to thank for this is Harry Potter Which we believe will have books written about him someday. " Even though the death of Lily and James Potter is tragic. Im so glad voldemort is gone." A quote from Dumbledor.
