

The Daily Prophet

YOU-KNOW-WHO IS WHO-KNOWS-WHERE

By Maddy Louise

On the 31st of October, the lord of darkness was mysteriously defeated by a young boy Harry Potter. A couple of days ago On halloween night, the deadly, dark lord suddenly appeared at Godri's hollow(the potter's house) and committed murder. Dismally, Lily and James potter were killed whilst their young son Harry survived the attack. Shockingly, the reason behind these events are still unknown but what we do know is You-Know-Whos reign of terror is no more.

Yesterday, after You-Know-Who vanished, people celebrated all day. In the crowded streets, large groups of witches and wizards in colourful cloaks partied with glee. Strangely, they started randomly hugging people even the muggles since the were so overjoyed. We spoke to a witch called Wendy who said "Rejoice for You-Know-Who has vanished at last! Everyone should be celebrating this happy happy day."

Humorously, our fabulous celebrations made the muggle's news last night. All afternoon, the clueless muggles reported our messenger owls for acting strange when they weren't doing anything. For those silly muggles said we were strange but really they were the clueless ones. Also, when we were casting spells, they said they saw shooting stars however it was just our spells of joy. While speaking to Miss Lia, our muggle expert, she explained, "We need to make sure our celebrations don't lead out our personal secrets."

Finally, as You-Know-Who has vanished, we can look forward to many happy years. We owe this all to Harry Potter, the boy who lived. Within years to come, there will be several books written about him. The professor Dumble Dore said " I'm devastated that Lily and James dies but shocked how their boy survived."